

Loyola Debaters Place Fifth In Hopkins Tourney

In the Johns Hopkins University Invitational Debating Tournament on January 30-31, Loyola placed fifth in a field of fourteen colleges and universities. The Loyola team, composed of T. Howland Sanks and Richard J. Otenasek, won 4 and lost 2. The 2 losses were to Princeton and George Washington, the first and second place winners in the tournament. The Loyola victories were at the expense of Georgetown, Duquesne, Morgan and Emory. Sanks was rated seventh best speaker in the entire tournament.

In the tournament, Loyola defended the affirmative and the negative in alternate debates, giving 3 affirmative and 3 negative debates. Both of Loyola's defeats occurred while defending the negative.

Georgetown University's Gaston Debating Society engaged Loyola in 2 debates here at Evergreen on February 6. The Loyola debaters were Joseph Mead and Maurice Sullivan on the negative and T. Howland Sanks and Richard J. Otenasek on the affirmative. Loyola gained an even split with the debaters from Georgetown.

On February 11, 4 Loyola debaters put on an exhibition debate before the members of Our Lady of Mount Carmel's Holy Name Society. The debaters were T. Howland Sanks, James O'Hara, John Tormey and Eugene Fink. After the debate, the floor was open to discussion and questions by the members of the audience.

Last Friday afternoon, Loyola played host to LaSalle College of Philadelphia. Eugene Fink and William Hicken upheld the affirmative for Loyola while Joseph Blair and Richard Otenasek defended the negative. Loyola was victorious in both contests.

ROTC Rifle Squad Ends Record Firing Matches

The Loyola College R. O. T. C. rifle squad completed the fourth and final stage in record firing matches for the Wm. Randolph Hearst trophy in National R. O. T. C. rifle competition on February 11. The targets used have been sent to Second Army headquarters at Fort Meade to determine the regional winner among the various colleges and units participating in the matches. The rifle team, under the direction of Sgt. Albert Geckle, met formally for the first time shortly after this final round and requested college recognition as an official campus club. Officers will be elected in the near future.

A company of Pershing Rifles, national honorary military society, is now being organized on the campus. The company will have its own group of officers, with Frank A. Sobiesky receiving the post of Public Informations Officer for the unit. The purpose of the society is to promote the highest ideals in military endeavors, foster friendlier relations among R. O. T. C. students, influence their performance at drill, create better citizenship, and promulgate the ideals of the R. O. T. C. The following eight cadets have been instrumental in the company's organization: Schultz, Tutcheon, DeSantis, Vona-sek, Nicotra, Wright, Sobieski, and Gunning.

Lt. Col. Ralph E. Vondervort, chief instructor of the Evergreen unit, has announced plans for an elaborate military ball to be held in the college gymnasium on Saturday, April 11. The dance will be strictly formal, with the R. O. T. C. students wearing their dress uniforms and army finery. The event will be an all-campus affair, open to all students and their friends. The Governor, Mayor, and top military brass will be invited to participate in the colorful program.

Noted Writer To Give First ASN Lecture

The Loyola chapter of Alpha Sigma Nu, the National Jesuit Honor Society, is sponsoring a spring lecture series consisting of three Friday evening talks by two prominent journalists and a member of the Russian anti-Soviet underground. The speakers are Robert Aura Smith, Constantine Boldyreff and William H. Lawrence. The first lecture will be held next Friday, February 27, in the Cohn Hall at 8:15 P. M.

This initial talk will be given by Robert Aura Smith, editorial writer for the New York Times. His topic will be "East Asia Handout". Mr. Smith is a political scientist, radio writer, foreign correspondent and author. He was born in Denver, Colorado, and was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University. He was the Ohio Rhodes Scholarship winner for his year and he studied at Oxford. He has held teaching positions with Barnard College and Yale Staff Officers Training School.

World-Wide Reporter

His newspaper experience is extensive. He was once news editor on the Manila Daily Bulletin and staff correspondent on the Christian Science Monitor and at the cable desk of the New York Times. During the war he was Chief of the India-Burma Office of War Information in New Delhi. He was also Chief of the Overseas Training Division of the OWI. His present duties with the Times include writing as a Far Eastern specialist and editorial writing.

Mr. Smith has three books on world affairs to his credit. They are Our Future in Asia, which was published in 1940, Your Foreign Policy, published in 1941 and Divided India, in 1947. He is also a contributor to many current magazines and he has written for both CBS and NBC. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and The English Speaking Union.

Russian D. P.

Constantine Boldyreff will give the next talk in the series on March 20. His subject is "Stalin's Great-est Threat, The Russian People". Mr. Boldyreff is the son of an executed White Russian General. He has been fighting and campaigning against the Bolsheviks since he was twenty. He had carried on his anti-Soviet work in China, Poland, Africa and the Balkans. He is the leader of NTS, the party of counter revolution in the U.S.S.R.

Washington Reporter

The final talk will be given by William H. Lawrence on March 27. His topic is "Eyes on Washington". Mr. Lawrence is the national correspondent for the New York Times in the capital. He has covered international news in Cairo, Moscow, the Pacific, the Balkans and Korea. His lecture will give a picture of some of the forces that go to make up the national news stories. Admission to these lectures will be by ticket only.

Alpha Sigma Nu is the national Jesuit honor society. The present members on the campus are James P. Garland, James L. Gumnick, Joseph C. Blair, John W. Farrell, Neal C. Bathon and G. Harry Hock.

REHEARSING FOR "THE LAST OF MY SOLID GOLD WATCHES" ARE PAUL STEINHAGEN, JACK KELLEHER AND E. KENT WATERS. Steinhagen, as Charlie Colton, a broken-down Southern salesman, is telling his troubles to Kelleher, playing the part of Bob Harper in this Tennessee Williams' production, and Waters, who plays a negro waiter. The play is to be presented tonight at the Philadelphia Festival of Plays. Since this photograph has been engraved, the cast has been changed, and Peter D. Stewart will replace Steinhagen.

Dramatists Present Play In Philadelphia Sunday

Peter D. Stewart, John Kelleher, and E. Kent Waters will play the three characters in Tennessee Williams' play, The Last of My Solid Gold Watches, Sunday, February 22, at Saint Joseph's College in Philadelphia. The three players will be representing the Masque and Rapier Society of Loyola College in one contest of the Festival of Plays. A similar contest will be held in each of the other two Jesuit provinces and the three winners will compete in still another contest later. Saint Joseph's College, Georgetown University, the University of Scranton, and Loyola are the participants in Sunday's competition.

Three Plays Discarded

The decision to do Tennessee Williams' play came only after three other plays had been attempted and discarded for various reasons. Extensive preparations were made for My Heart's in the Highlands, but the author, William Saroyan, made public a statement to the effect that he did not want any college groups to produce his plays. The Masque and Rapier Society's director, John O. Scrimger, stated, "Saroyan has been rejected by the commercial theatre and has refused rights to all colleges in a false effort to save his literary prestige."

Mr. Scrimger next started production of Fortunato, by the Quintero brothers, but, according to Mr. Scrimger, "The moderator and the officers of the dramatic society failed to grasp the significance of the play." He withdrew the play and left the contest production to the discretion of the officers. Then Carl Jelenko suggested a scene from Robert E. Sherwood's play, There Shall Be No Night, and proceeded with rehearsals of it. At this point, the officers, disapproving this play also, submitted the Tennessee Williams drama as a better choice. Mr. Scrimger agreed to direct the play.

Moderator Leaves

In the middle of these proceedings, the dramatic society's moderator, the Rev. Michael F. Maher, S. J., was appointed as assistant to the Provincial of the Maryland Province and left Loyola College. The Rev. Joseph K. Drane, S. J., Dean, is acting as moderator until a new one is chosen.

Class Plays Soon

Preparations are now under way for the second annual one-act play contest between the four classes in the college, to be held in Cohn Hall on Friday and Saturday, March 13 and 14. The initial contest, held last Spring, received much favorable comment, and this year's is expected to be even more successful.

The contest is sponsored by the Masque and Rapier Society and many of the students who participated in the plays last year have since become members of the society. Anyone interested in helping in his class's production should see his class president.

Songsters Give Concert Tonite

Tonight at 8:15 P. M. in McAuley Hall at Mt. St. Agnes College the Loyola College Glee Club will be the guests of the St. Agnes Glee Club in a joint concert.

Under the direction of Mr. Felice Iula the Loyola College Glee Club will sing the Alma Mater of Loyola, The Song of the Jolly Roger, The Builder, and Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor. S. Anthony Battaglia, president of the Glee Club, will sing The Clang of the Forge, a bass solo, and William Ruzicka will sing the Negro spiritual, Humble. Theodore T. Niznik, the accompanist, will play Claire de Lune.

The two glee clubs will join forces on America the Beautiful and Morning. The program to be sung by the Mt. St. Agnes Glee Club has not yet been announced. They will be directed, however, by Mr. Robert Lansing and their moderator is Sister Chariita.

The Glee Club is also scheduled to go to Trinity College on March 15 in the afternoon and the Mt. St. Agnes Glee Club will return here for our annual spring concert.

Organizations Initiate Semester Activities

• Mendel Club

The last meeting of the Mendel Club was held on February 18, when the topic under discussion was Lethal Heredity. The seminar consisted of a lecture on the topic by Herbert H. Nasdor, Treasurer of the club, followed by a discussion period. The role that inheritance plays in the life and health of an individual and its effects on activity were the principal subjects of discussion.

Donald Lansinger, President of the Mendel Club, invites all biology majors and others who may be interested to the next seminar to be held on Wednesday, March 11, when Maurice Reeder will speak on The Uses Of Algae.

Hormones and Enzymes and The Physiology of Growth will be the remaining topics for discussion on April 15 and May 6.

• Sodality

The Junior Sodality will hold its Annual Communion Breakfast on Sunday, March 1st. After Mass at Saint Ignatius' Church at 8:30, the breakfast will be served at the Park Plaza Hotel. The guest speaker will be Rev. Ernest B. Clements, S. J., teacher and Alumni Director at Gonzaga High School in Washington. A cordial invitation is extended to all students to attend. Tickets at $1.50 may be purchased from Lee Russo, Chairman of the Committee, Ray Gaeng, Connie Lanzi and Larry Awalt.

Since many of the members of the Sodality are enrolled in the R. O. T. C. at Loyola, Father Clements has chosen for his topic: Catholic Leadership in the Armed Forces. His knowledge of the subject has been gotten first-hand, since he recently returned from Korea where he served as Chaplain for the District of Columbia National Guard.

Fr. Clements is a native of Baltimore, having been graduated from Loyola High School in 1928. Following graduation, he entered the Society of Jesus and was ordained in 1941. Most of the time since then, has been spent at Gonzaga.

After volunteering for the National Guard, he was called to duty in December, 1949. The 1st year was spent at Fort Custer, Michigan, before the unit was shipped to Korea. For his service, Father Clements was awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon with Medal Pendant for Meritorious Service.

The next Sodality Union Meeting will be held at Loyola on Sunday, March 15. Plans are laid for a Byzantine Mass in the Slavonic-Russian language to be held in the near future.

• Management Club

The Loyola College Management Club has begun a program of self conduct interview among its members in an effort to acquaint the business students about to graduate with the necessary finesse in applying for prospective jobs. Charles McFarland, president of the club, has engaged an experienced personnel man to speak on the proper office etiquette at a future meeting. The idea for these self conducted employer-employee interviews was obtained from the Rutgers University plan, where gratifying results were achieved by two finance professors in prepping their students for outside jobs.

At the first meeting in March a twenty minute film, It's Magic, will be shown to the club members. The movie deals with the manufacture and assembly of an automobile engine. These meetings are held on the first and third Fridays of each month and are open to all students of the college.

• NSA

Representatives of the NSA have announced that contracts for student discounts have been renewed and that discount cards will be sold in the near future for the sum of twenty-five cents.

"These cards will more than pay for themselves if they are used regularly," says Hal Sanks, Loyola NSA representative. A list of the stores honoring the discounts will be distributed along with the cards.

In addition to work on discounts, the NSA also announces that Summer tours for students at extremely low prices are being sponsored by the organization. Anyone interested can receive details from Hal Sanks or Matt Arena.

• Physics Academy

The next meeting of the Angelo Secchi Physics Academy will be held on February 25, 1953 at 12:30 P. M. in the Physics Laboratory. George Numsen, a senior and Physics Major, will address the club on the determination of error in recording and computing scientific information. Following the lecture, George Fields, secretary of the organization, will discuss pending trips to Locke, Incorporated and Westinghouse.

On March 11, 1953 Mr. Cartwright Griesacker, a recent addition to the Loyola Physics Department, will address the members on the subject of Optics. Mr. Griesacker graduated from Evergreen in 1949 and was thereafter employed in the optics department at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds before his return this semester as a member of the Loyola faculty.

Loyola NFCCS Regional Host

A meeting of the Regional Council of the Baltimore-Washington Region of the N. F. C. C. S. was held in the student lounge of Loyola College on Sunday, February 8. It was attended by John W. Farrell, the junior delegate, Hal Sanks, James O'Hara, Donald Burton, and Richard Hall as representatives of Loyola College.

At this meeting, the president, Patrick McCormick from Catholic University and James Gumnick, the vice-president from Loyola, reported that at the National Council meeting the national officers gave a rating of 'fair' to the work of this Region. Measures were also taken to better inform students and student governments of the assistance available to all extra-curricular organizations through the Federation Commission system.

Regional Congress

The date for the Regional Congress, to which students from all of the colleges in the region are invited, was set for March 21, 1953. Mount Saint Agnes will be the Congress site and the theme of the Congress will be, "N. F. C. C. S. and the Student Vocation." Both general assembly meetings, and panel meetings devoted to such subjects as: Student Government, Mariology, Forensics, Liturgy, Science and International Relations will be held.

Catholic Debate League

Hal Sanks announced his plans to establish a Forensics Commission as well as a Catholic Debate League at a meeting at Loyola College on Sunday, February 15.

The next meeting of the Regional Council will be held at Trinity College in Washington on Sunday, March 8. At this meeting the final plans for the Congress will be set up.

Film Classic Series Scheduled by Little

The Little Theatre at 523 North Howard Street is planning a special series of return engagements for classics of motion picture history especially for students. The Baltimore City Board of Education is a co-sponsor of the revivals which are entitled the "Great Authors Series. The next event will be The Red Shoes on March 14 which will be followed on April 25 by Charles Laughton in The Hunchback of Notre Dame. These student shows will begin at 9 and 11 A. M. Admission will be thirty-five cents. The management advises you to get your tickets beforehand.

Junior Enters Seminary

John D. Schiavone English major of the Class of '54, entered St. Mary's Seminary, Paca St., on Wednesday, February 4. Schiavone, better known as "Skeets" to his friends, played intramural basketball and tennis here at the College. He was a graduate of Towson Catholic High School, the class of 1950. Schiavone joins Francis Stafford and Albert Julian, former members of the class of 1954 of Loyola, at St. Mary's.

NFCCS Offers Planned European Summer Tours

The National Federation of Catholic College Students is planning a series of inexpensive student summer tours of the continent especially designed to give college students a view of the Catholic side of Europe. These tours range in basic price from $719 to $949. There is also a Mexican tour which costs $298.

The 1953 tours are well-planned and represent a big-value for NFCCS members. This isn't the run-of-the-mill travel operation at all; it has been especially designed for NFCCS members right from the start. All of the four European tours feature an audience with the Holy Father at Castle Gondolfo, and a tour of the Vatican; three of the four provide for the members to participate in the Torchlight Procession at Lourdes. Arrangements will be made for all groups to meet with students from the European federations under the auspices of Pax Romana, International Movement of Catholic Students.

Professional Backing

The Catholic Student Travel Office, as authorized by the Travel Committee of the NFCCS, has been established and will handle all correspondence, inquiries, promotion, planning and operations of the NFCCS Official 1953 Summer Travel Program. This office is a special division of United States Travel Agency, Inc., set up for the NFCCS in cooperation with your Travel Committee.

Must Act Early

These tours will be the finest in the entire student field; each and every NFCCS member has the opportunity of considering them. The 1953 summer will be the biggest yet in history of travel—so it is doubly important for us to know immediately how many members are interested in this program. A $50 deposit secures a reservation. Do not experience the disappointment of those who had to be turned down last year because they were too late. Write immediately to the Catholic Student Travel Office, 600 Fifth Avenue, New York 30, New York.

For further information the NFCCS Travel Bureau has two representatives on the campus, John W. Farrell and Ralston B. Russell. They will be able to provide printed literature and application forms.

Quarterly Wants New Writers

The Evergreen Quarterly, through THE GREYHOUND facilities, again asks the students to hand in any material which they might have on hand to the Quarterly office or to any staff member. The deadline for the next issue is February 27, and the issue should be out by the middle of March.

Carroll Conway, editor of the Quarterly, says that the magazine could use some more articles with stress laid, not so much upon academic subjects, but more upon politics and events from daily life. Some good humorous articles would be appreciated by the editor, and by the student body also, Mr. Conway believes.

The editor went on to say:

"If, as it seems to some members of the student body, the Evergreen Quarterly has degenerated into a magazine with appeal for the 'intellectual elite' by means of articles upon academic topics, it is now time for those same students to try building up the Quarterly into a magazine which appeals to all students. If, therefore, you would like to see a certain type of story, within reason, in the Quarterly, now's the time to write that story yourself.

Col. Vandervort Began at the Bottom, Rose From Mule Skinner to Freshman Herding Boss

by Maurice M. Reeder

Ever hear of a guy switching from the relatively easy life of handling mules for the army's artillery to instructing a bunch of dead-beat, carefree college students in the ways of war and liking it? Well, you lucky boys in the army's brand new cadaver corps on the campus have such a man in the person of Lt. Colonel Ralph E. Vandervort, formerly the assistant PMST for artillery at Ohio State University and a man of some note in army affairs. In official army lingo, PMST stands for Professor of Military Science and Tactics and not "Pity My State of Training" as some forthright R.O.T.C. student might have it.

Hollywood Bred

This big, likable army veteran who guides the fortunes of Loyola's newly organized R.O.T.C. corps is one of the youngest colonels around, having been born no earlier than Dec. 12, 1919 in the little town of Oak Park, Illinois. Prior to his long military career, he had lived in Hollywood all his early life, but before the stars had a chance to get in his eyes, Uncle Sam beckoned. Having had previous R.O.T.C. experience in a California high school, it was only natural that he should join the corps at Oregon State College, but perhaps it is a bit noteworthy that, while there, he commanded the artillery unit and, upon his graduation in 1941, was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in field artillery.

About this time, the tiny island of Nippon decided that American lieutenants were at a premium and tried to make room for some new blood at Pearl Harbor. So, taking the hint after successful completion of a battery of competitive army exams, Colonel Vandervort received his regular army commission in October of 1942. He served with the pack artillery in 1943 and later traveled to the mountains of Colorado to swap frostbite remedies with the ski troops stationed there. In December of '43 he hitched a ride to Ireland, where he trained for several months before being sent across the straits to bonny old England for more training preparatory to the fireworks at Normandy that summer.

A Day At The Beach

In July of '44 he went ashore with a few thousand odd companions at Utah Beach to keep a date with Adolph in Berlin about a year later. He spent 280 consecutive days in combat while serving with the 961st Field Artillery Battalion in the race across Europe from Normandy to Salzburg, Austria. This battalion was part of Patton's 3rd army in the fighting across France to Alsace, where it joined Patch's 7th army into the realm of Deutschland über alles.

The war ended, the colonel returned to the states for a well earned 45 day leave, then reembarked for duty with the army of occupation in Germany, serving with the 68th Constabulary Squadron. His wife and son joined him while he was thus engaged, and after a year of living in Germany the entire family returned to the U. S. in 1947.

Pentagon Brass

Upon his arrival, he was assigned to the Pentagon to serve on the War Department General Staff with Eisenhower, Bradley and Collins. In 1950, the colonel reported to the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla., to take the advance course for artillery officers. (By this time, he could assemble, load and fire an artillery piece left-legged while standing on his right elbow). As previously mentioned, Colonel Vandervort held the post of assistant PMST at Ohio State in 1951 before his selection to head the new unit at Loyola in the summer of 1952.

As regards his private life, the colonel was married in 1942 to Katherine Elizabeth Scheumann, an army brat (daughter of an army officer). They have two sons, Ralph E. III, age 9, and John William, age 5. The family lives on Stonewood Road in Northwood.

Short On Spirit

His views of Loyola: he is very pleased to be at Evergreen after his previous experience with a big time diploma factory, and is impressed with the Jesuit system of education, but finds the colleges rather short on school spirit. This latter, incidentally, is a disturbing situation, but finds the college rather reformed and his regular attendance at Loyola social and athletic functions, while the students themselves stay home with Red Buttons and Godfrey, shows him to be more interested in the college than the boys who foot the bill to attend his classes. Maybe the local lads could take a page from the colonel's book and take an active interest in the activities of the school they represent.

News from the Night School

by Joseph Kantorski

Father Wise, of the Education Department of the Evening School, has been elected President of the Adult Education Association of Baltimore. Father Davish will serve on the board of directors.

Study Group Visits

Dr. Harry Bard's community study group of Public School teachers visited Loyola College on Thursday afternoon, February 12. After partaking of some refreshments in the cafeteria, the group assembled in the chapel, where they were addressed by Father Rector. Members of the Glee Club performed the Regina Coeli and parts of the Mass in Gregorian Chant. Following this, the visitors adjourned to the Xavier Lounge for discussion.

The purpose of the group is to gather information from various institutions and to make use of it in treating special problems in the public schools. While here, they obtained information pertaining to particular educational work done at Loyola College.

Faculty Meets

A meeting of the Evening College and the Graduate Division faculty was held in the Xavier Lounge on Sunday afternoon, February 15, at 3:00 P. M.

The Dean opened the discussion with a progress report on new and projected developments and on the outcomes of recent educational association meetings attended by representatives of the school.

Reports were given by chairmen of several major departments on meetings held in their own departments. This was followed by a discussion of educational aims, and of the functions of each department and the cooperation of the faculty members in attaining these aims.

Five students have accumulated enough credits for their degree as a result of their last term's work. They are: Gustav Tsottles, Richard Gross, James Middleton, Florence E. Powell, Charles McGowan, William Rathell, and Thomas DeVito.

A Seminar technique will be used in the Foreign Relations history course offered on Saturdays at 12:50, according to the instructor, Dr. Janet Baker. Classes will be highlighted by guest lecturers including consuls and specialists who are familiar with the topics undertaken.

The course, offered every other year, attacks contemporary problems of foreign relations from an economic as well as political standpoint. Topics listed for the current term include: Anglo-American Relations, Axis-Controlled Nations, Economics of International Relations, International Law, Far Eastern Relations, and Russian Relations.

NFCCS Starts Debate League

The first meeting of the Catholic Intercollegiate Debating League was held last Sunday, Feb. 15, in the cafeteria of Loyola College. The Bellarmine Debating Society sent out letters of invitation to ten colleges in the Baltimore-Washington area proposing the foundation of such a league. Seven colleges responded.

The meeting began at 2 P. M. with a welcoming address by the Rev. Robert Hoggson, S. J., moderator of the Society. The delegates formally proposed the formation of such a league and a proposed constitution was introduced by Loyola. The league was temporarily organized until permanent elections can be held in the spring.

This League will work in conjunction with the Regional Forensic Commission of the N.F.C.C.S. which will be established here at Loyola. James Gumnick, vice-president of the Regional Council, explained to the League what its position would be in relation to N.F.C.C.S.

News In Brief

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Antoniuk announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Antoniuk, to Theodore T. Niznik, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore T. Niznik, Sr. Niznik is a senior and the accompanist of the glee club.

Three more Loyola graduates of the Class of 1952 have received their commissions from the Naval Officers School at Newport. They are P. Patrick Leonard, F. Neale Smith and Howard J. France. Vincent J. Brocato recently began his training at the same station.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

This old cartoon has been resurrected from the files to fill an empty space that the editors once planned to fill with information. Due to the inactivity of persons who shall be nameless we are unable to report on the History Academy, the IRC, the Math Club and other events which we hope no one will miss.

Many Evils At Rosewood School Go Uncorrected

by Jerome Michael Gibson

THE GREYHOUND presents the following article in the civic interest even though it has no direct bearing on college life. It was originally entitled "The Christian Truth About Rosewood". The author is privy to direct sources of information which he can verify. He believes that the matter has received inadequate coverage in the ordinary channels of public information. He presents his facts with no tinge of sensationalism.

Within the boundaries of the State of Maryland there is an institution called Rosewood Training School for the Feeble-minded, founded by a long forgotten, but great soul who sought to follow Christ's principles of Love and Charity. In the years following its inception it became evident that the value of this institution to the State of Maryland was great and public funds were voted to support and enlarge the facilities. Courageous and self sacrificing doctors chose Rosewood as a fertile field of endeavor. The public through its legislature, approved great sums of money for the maintenance of its goals. But, as with our National structure, so with our State structure came the "... Envy, and calumny and hate and pain ..."

Triple Capacity

Key positions of administration, since they became more remunerative, were political plums. No longer were Christian principles of prime importance. In their stead grew a materialistic philosophy and a contest for power and supremacy of the individual.

Buildings constructed for care and treatment of small groups of the feeble-minded are now filled with double and triple the number of patients they can physically accommodate. Budget allotments for additional nurses and attendants were deleted by the politically created department of Mental Hygiene with no apparent objections of the Superintendent. Salary increases for working personnel was held to a figure below decent living standards.

Help Doesn't Stay

The greatly overcrowded institution is understaffed and forbidding. Underpaid attendants have resigned because of the intolerable working conditions, dictatorial administrative policy and over work. Turn over in personnel has become a devastating problem.

Unreliable and incapable patient-help is now pressed into service, a few with token salaries, but for the most part without remuneration. Some patients who have been psychologically evaluated as having Moron mental ages are placed in positions of responsibility beyond their threshold, with subsequent negligence, privations and injury or death for helpless patients. This patient help consists of Maryland children committed to Rosewood for training and adequate preparation for return to normal community living. Their training and preparation now consists of forced labor in the hospital and cottages, caring for the incontinent as menial slaves of the institution.

Curtailed Schooling

Only the smallest of the educable patients are in the school program, the larger and older children are working 8, 10 and 12 hours a day, around the clock.

To forestall public criticism some of these older working children have been returned to the classroom in the past three weeks, and are receiving only one hour's instruction a day. Most of the children in the institution who could have benefited by formal education cannot read, write, count money, or tell time.

Patients and patient-help live together in filth, ignorance and misery. Malnutrition and dehydration is evident in every building where incontinent are housed. The death rate percentage of Rosewood is the highest in the history of the institution, although this information is suppressed.

Recently a plan was made by the Department of Mental Hygiene, to move the entire population of another institution for the feeble-minded consisting of 290 in all en masse to Rosewood. When a small group of thoughtful parents of the Rosewood children objected to this further crowding they were accused of promoting racial discrimination.

The fact that Rosewood had a pitiful waiting list of applicants numbering over 1200 mentally retarded children, many of whom were epileptic and spastic was dismissed from the minds of the Dept. of Mental Hygiene.

A Thousand Wait

When the public showed signs of wanting to know the situation, the lists of applicants that were despairingly waiting their turn for bed space were removed from the Social Service Dept. in the night by the Dept. of Mental Hygiene. Of the existing waiting list 1016 names were deleted and a new interpretation of the word "waiting list" was born.

Zealous parents and public minded citizens appealed to the local press and political figures for assistance in placing the truth back in the picture. When the reporters tried to present the verifiable facts to the people, cautious editors refused to print all the information.

The truth today is, as it was in the exposé, The Maryland Shame, Rosewood is overcrowded, understaffed and not living up to its obligations as a training school for the mentally retarded.

Air Recruiters Here Feb. 25

Next Wednesday, a United States Air Force Aviation Cadet Selection Team will visit Loyola. This is the same team which came last Fall for the purpose of publicizing the Cadet Training Program.

Team members will be available in the Library Lobby to discuss students' military problems and to counsel all persons interested in the Aviation Cadet Program. During the team's previous visit, many students were interested in Aviation Cadet training but were advised to postpone applications until Now. All prospective applicants should complete their applications at this time.

It would be of great assistance to applicants as well as to team personnel, if students would obtain a birth certificate and a grade transcript previous to the team's visit. This is necessary to complete the application in its entirety, and would save valuable time in processing of applicants. However, if men are not able to obtain these papers previously, their applications may be accepted.

After completing the application, prospective cadets will be sent to Sampson Air Force Base, Geneva, New York to initiate qualifying mental and physical examinations. After finishing these tests, and before departing from Sampson, the applicant will be informed of his qualification or disqualification. Capt. R. E. Hall, Team President, states that the application processed by the team is only a request to complete the qualifying examinations. If the student passes the tests, he will be given a four month draft deferment to enable the Air Force to complete his papers and to assign him to his proper flying training class. Graduating seniors are given highest priority for rapid assignment if they request it.

An applicant must be between the ages of 19 and 26½, be single, be a U. S. citizen, and be in good physical health.

Critilogist Interviews Basil Rathbone at Lyric

by W. Thomas Grahn

The presentation of the "Manfred" Symphony (Opus 115) by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra at a recent concert here was a cultural pinnacle in the musical history of the nation. The performance of this difficult work featured local actors in supporting parts, namely William Shriver, Jr., Ruth Walsh, Elizabeth Keller and John Ademy, with Basil Rathbone in the title role. We had the pleasure of interviewing Mr. Rathbone before his rehearsal with the Symphony.

This dramatic poem of Lord Byron's, scored by Robert Schumann, is rarely produced, and Mr. Rathbone began speaking to us with a few statistics illustrative of this point. "The last time the Manfred was heard in this country was in 1937 when I did it with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra on the West coast. This is its first performance in the East—only its second in America—since Edwin Booth did excerpts from it in New York in 1869." The delay is not due to lack of popularity but rather to the tremendous proportions reached by such a work—a large chorus is necessary (supplied here by the Handel choir), various speaking parts and two quartets. "The major reason," said Mr. Rathbone, "is that few communities are willing to support such a production. However, it is very important that we do this and great credit is due to Baltimore, the Symphony Board of Directors and the civic interests which saw this through to completion."

Praises Freccia

Mr. Rathbone had nothing but praise for the local orchestra, and predicted a brilliant future in store for it if monumental achievements of the "Manfred" stature become a part of the musical life of this city under the guidance of the new conductor, Massimo Freccia. "Many years ago when Stokowski went to Philadelphia, there was no symphony—he made it. My good friend Mr. Freccia has the chance of doing in Baltimore what Stokowski did in Philadelphia. He is a magnificent musician and it took great courage on his part to undertake a project of this size. I feel it is a definite lead into the future."

The whole idea of producing the "Manfred" was Freccia's. Last summer he approached Mr. Rathbone about the possibility of a performance here, and was assured that the actor would let no radio or television commitments stand in his way. "In my business it is difficult to tell in June exactly where one will be the following January, but I did not feel I could interrupt a play," he said.

Sherlock Holmes Of Radio

The famous impersonator of Sherlock Holmes widely known to a radio audience of millions is a tall, thin man with expressive blue eyes, and a face of character. He was conservatively dressed in dark blue and smoked quickly, almost nervously, as he spoke in a congenial and friendly manner. The accent was a staccato British with neatly clipped words and phrases. However, he was not born in England. "Mother happened to be in Johannesburg at the time," he explained, "and I went to England when I was four years old to be educated." He first visited the United States in 1921 but has not been back to the mother-country since 1937.

He spoke with concern about the opportunities (or lack of them) which are afforded those wishing to make the stage their career today. The chance to develop dramatically is not offered to the young actor. "When I first began I knew forty-seven parts in twenty-two Shakespearian plays alone, not including Sheridan, Goldsmith, Masefield, Shaw, etc. Just imagine!"

At the present time Mr. Rathbone is awaiting the fate of a new play which may reach Broadway next season. It is to be hoped that sometime in its run it comes to Baltimore and we may once again see the stage at its finest in the hands of an artist.

Stewart to Direct His Own "Candida"

Three Loyola students were among those chosen to participate in a new theatrical group recently formed in Baltimore. Peter D. Stewart has been selected to direct the first production. Paul Steinhagen has a substantial supporting role. Talent has also been drawn from Towson State Teachers College, Northwestern University, and the University of Chicago. John J. Kuhn is business manager for the organization.

The company, to be known as "The Harlequins," will give its initial performance, George Bernard Shaw's Candida on March 6th, 7th, and 8th, at the Denuis Dance Theatre, 100 E. Monument Street. Admission will be one dollar.

A spokesman for the troupe said that their aim was to present good theatre to Baltimore audiences at a price that they can afford.

MUSICAL POTPOURI

The Record Situation

by

Joseph C. Alexander

Have you ever noticed a baby bird being fed—its eyes bulging, its tiny bill opened wide, gulping down worms, insects and what-have-you? Have you ever considered that vulturic appetite with reference to the size of the birdling? No real display of preference — just bulk; somewhat like the American public. The rub is that, in true American style, we must pay for our bulk of culture, and sometimes pay dearly. Book publishers recognizing the situation and its certain financial advantages have come to the "rescue" by distributing pocket-sized reprints at a fraction of original publishing costs. Viewing this success, major record companies have come up with their own "reprint" plan, hence we have the appearance of low-priced records. Victor is selling its offering under the Bluebird label; Columbia under the Entre. All of these disks are twelve-inch and sell for about $2.95. Following the book publishers policy, both Victor and Columbia have gone to the older items in their recordings and the selection as well as the performance is well worth the price. Bluebird has restamped early post-war catalogs for their selections. Entre, on the other hand, has dug back perhaps a little too far, (pre-war, and sounds like it) —or perhaps not far enough for those collectors items. At any rate, this reprint policy is a real break for the average listener who is not completely hypnotized by the current requirements of high fidelity.

London and Decca have brought out low priced recordings of the lighter classics, overtures, or the more popular side of the serious repertoire. This is perhaps in competition with Remington and Royal who so admirably serve the market for which they are intended.

Perhaps the greatest single boost to the morale of the record collector is the fact that he can get new, original recordings by major companies at 20% to 30% discount.

Why Get Soaked?

There is no reason why any interested person should pay exorbitant prices when he can have any record he wants at a discount. Many record shops in New York City offer these opportunities and quite a few cater especially to the mail-order business. Any copy of the Sunday New York Times will give complete details. Even here in Baltimore we have a shop or two which will give 20% off on all L. P. recordings.

Indications like these lead one to wonder if there isn't going to be a crack in the record industry's price structure one of these days. The bulk is available for that vulturic American appetite, only discrimination need be added so that an organized demand for the best will eventually be satisfied.

Drew Middleton Evaluates Red Army and NATO Forces

"The Defense of Western Europe" by Drew Middleton; Appleton-Century-Crofts, Inc. $3.50; 313 p.; 1952.

That fear can often distort judgment is a truism almost too common-place to need mentioning, but Drew Middleton believes that much of the thinking concerning Russia has been such. He believes that a balanced appraisal can be had of the allied status by analyzing and assaying the debits and credits of both camps. And though this book was completed in January 1952, his reflections do in part still obtain to today.

First it must be recognized that Russia is at once vested with a geographical advantage, for it requires much less effort to exploit dissensions outside its periphery, than for the outside areas to maintain status quo or to penetrate inward. At its fingertips are Europe, the Middle East, the Far East and even North America across the relatively defenseless areas of the Arctic. But the Russian colossus is hardly a menace until its over 200 divisions are equipped with all the refinements of a modern army. And it is to this end then, that the seizing of West European industrial centers becomes of prime importance to them.

Need For Morale

Foremost in any consideration of defense, is rebuilding the morale of Europe. And this can only be brought about by strengthening their economies and making some concrete steps for their military defense. To this end, we have the Mutual Security Agency and N.A.T.O.

In any military defense of Western Europe, the traditionally bad record of Russian logistics is going to be counted on heavily. Thus our defense on the continent will consist of a series of feint moves; letting the enemy take the offensive beyond the reach of his supplies, with the allies returning at this point fast deadly counter-punches. As far as is known the same generals who served in WW II on the Russian high-staff are still serving today and it is expected that the same reasoning will still apply. Thus it is expected that the Russians will try to reach the coast in about three days. But they will be going so fast, that at the Rhine River we hope to simulate another Dunkirk over them. At this point the defense seems a bit naive, but geographical factors are so appointed that any other move seems highly doubtful.

Scandinavian Flank Weak

Meanwhile, two strong defensive points will have been built up on the Russian flanks. These being Norway and Denmark in the north and Greece, Yugoslavia and Turkey to the south. Though Sweden is not a member of N.A.T.O., there is no doubt as to where its sympathies lie. Sweden feared joining N.A.T.O. lest it provoke Russia into invading Finland. Meanwhile the Swedes have built a moderate defense force, having to their credit a jet pursuit force, plus a modest navy.

But the population of Scandinavia is only a bit over 15,000,000, so we cannot place too much confidence in her. As for the Finns, we may only hope that through stubborn guerilla resistance they will serve as an irritation in case of attack.

Mediterranean Flank Strong

Mr. Middleton's only criticism of the southern flank is that Turkey has not been recognized as the backbone of an allied offensive drive right into the heart of Russia. Then the question arises as to the allocation of military aid. Would it not be wiser to allocate the most aid to those countries, who would use it most profitably, and by this he means the Germans and Yugoslavians, than to weaker and indecisive countries like France and Italy? Britain should be retained as our fastest ally and the U. S. must make further sacrifices to meet its commitments to its allies.

This reviewer does not pretend to be a strategist, but it looks like a singularly conspicuous lack of foresight that Spain was excluded in any such defense arrangements. Separated as it is from the rest of Europe by a natural and very defensible barrier, it seems logical that equal emphasis should be placed on Spain.

Seniors May Win Overseas Scholarships

There has been a great up-surge of interest among college students in the idea of studying abroad. It is for this reason that many foreign countries are offering American college students an opportunity to spend a year studying in a foreign university. This year there are many countries offering both fellowships and assistant fellowships. Among the countries offering these opportunities are: Iran, Denmark, England, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, Cuba, and Mexico. Students wishing to receive further information on this subject should see Kirwin, who is the Fulbright representative for Loyola College.

There are also special awards offered to the American college student, among these are Fulbright and Danford awards. Under the Fulbright award, the student is permitted a year's study in the countries listed above. There are also many other countries not listed above, that perhaps may open their doors to Fulbright Students by the time the competition for the 1954 awards are closed.

At the present time Loyola has two representatives studying under Fellowship grants. George Joseph Sills is in England under the Fulbright award, and Joseph Staley, former head of the I. R. C. here at Loyola, is studying for his Ph.D. in Chemistry at Purdue University. Melvin Cohen has applied to the Ford Foundation for a teaching assistantship in Israel. Opportunities of this sort should not be overlooked by Loyola students who have the inclination to further pursue their course of study. Says Dr. Kirwin, "There is no reason why an ambitious, moderately competent student could not take this opportunity to improve himself by a year's study by both formal and informal education in a foreign country."

Editorial For A Better Catholic Press

Every February some committee demands the loan of our ears to browbeat us into "supporting the Catholic Press", but perhaps it might be a good idea to say to these Catholic Press Committees, "What have you ever done to support us?" If this seems like a viperous remark at first sight, let us ask ourselves a question, for example this question, "What is the Catholic Press?", and the answer probably will go like this, "The Catholic Press is a wide array of newspapers and magazines (and books) that in some way claims to represent the Catholic viewpoint." But besides representing the Catholic viewpoint, these publications have one other thing in common—almost every last one of them is at the very best only second rate when compared to Time, Life, Newsweek, Colliers, The Post, etc. There is no denying that the Catholic Press is flourishing, but it flourishes like an over-crowded seed bed where a dozen plants are trying to occupy the square inch that is sufficient for two or three. About the only fully intelligent weekly is the Commonweal which is as drab typographically as the Congressional Record. The Sign, Catholic Digest and the Catholic World do very well at times but they have yet to frighten the Curtis Publishing Company and its friends and rivals. (Perhaps we should include America when we list the better publications.)

Catholic magazines do not reach the wide audiences that Time and Life do because, plainly and simply, they lack the literary qualities and the wide reader interest of those magazines. (Life does not thrive on cheese cake alone if you recall). The sad fact is that none of the Catholic magazines by themselves have enough talent on their mastheads to put out one good issue after another as magazines must if they are to be good. This is merely because the Catholic Press is divided up into dozens of splinters instead of presenting a united front to the reading public. There is no reason why every religious order and layman's club has to have its own national competitive magazine. But they still try. The result is that there are more competing Catholic magazines than brauds of laundry soap, and the rivalries are just as superfluous, considering that there are only three major soap trusts in the country and One and only One Catholic Church. There is no excuse for a religion with twenty million American members that can't publish a readable weekly or monthly.

One Superb Weekly

The only answer to many mediocre publications is one good one. The talent that is diluted among the present publications could be concentrated into one superb unified weekly equal to Time, for example. This could be effected by liquidating all the assets of the present journals and investing them in one corporation. Probably only the Bishop could do this, and we're willing to bet that every individual periodical, no matter how feeble its circulation, would want to be the one exception to the liquidation process. But if we're to have realistic adult Catholic writing, these inferior offerings must go. Even if THE GREYHOUND heads the list of the extinct it must be done.

As for the diocesan weeklies, their editors should shrink down to six-point italic size when they see a top-notch daily like the Christian Science Monitor. The best Catholic papers are bad yellow journalism and only so-so wrapping paper compared to the dignified Monitor. Just how long do diocesan papers need to attain dignity and maturity? When will they stop whooping up their weekly Conant crisis and smear campaigns?

Perhaps some day you will have a Catholic paper wherein screaming Hearst headlines will be replaced by information, and dignity and accuracy will reign supreme. Perhaps some day we will see a good glossy Catholic weekly magazine. Perhaps. But it will never be done by passing committee resolutions.

Dave Maguire Decorated For Demolition Service in Korea

Corporal David B. Maguire, ex '52, son of Mrs. Eva B. Maguire of 1535 Stonewood Road is now in Korea serving with the 4th Infantry Division. The unit landed in Korea early this year after intensive training in Japan. Originally a California National Guard division, it was called to active duty in 1950 and has since been filled with men from every state in the union.

Maguire has been serving as a demolitions sergeant in Company A of the 578th Engineers, and he has been awarded the UN and Korean Service Ribbons. Before interrupting his junior year to enter the Army in March 1951, he was Associate Editor of the Evergreen Quarterly.

PETE BAMBERGER AND LARRY DONEGAN dive off in the 440 yd. freestyle against the Cavaliers of Virginia. The Hounds were edged 48-36 by the visitors.

Hoyas, Cardinals Downed; Swimmers Edged by Va.

by Frank McCoy

On Friday, Feb. 6th the highly touted University of Virginia swimming team won a close meet with the Hounds at the Evergreen pool. The Virginians won a 48 to 36 decision in a meet that produced some fine action on the part of both squads, particularly in the free style events. In the first event, which was the 300 yard medley relay the Hounds managed to wrap it up in fine style and walk off with the first honors of the meet. In the second event which was the 220 yard freestyle, the Virginia lads proved their competence and took first place. However, Pete Bamberger, who was handling the free-style chores in this event, was just nosed out and it was a tough one to lose. In the next event, the 50 yard free style, Bill Gross, taking over in the place of Jerry Rooney, copped first position and Dick Wheeler got second, which was a very good showing for the two boys.

Bollinger And Gross Lead Way

In the individual medley relay event, Lou McComas got second, the Virginia boys took first and third place. In the diving event the Cavaliers once again showed top notch form and took first and second place, however, Tom Volatile did a very fine job and was able to secure some points by taking third place. In the 100 yard free style dash, Captain Bob Bollinger took second place for the Hounds. In the following event, the 200 yard backstroke, the McComas brothers paired to take 2nd and 3rd place. The 200 yard breaststroke event was taken 1 and 2 by Virginia, however, a lot of praise is to be given to Fred Buchness for the good showing he made in his debut for the Greyhounds. In the 440 free style the Virginians took first and third place; Larry Donegan, showing a lot of hustle, took second place. In the final event of the meet, the Hounds showed a lot of class as the relay team of Bill Gross, Pete Bamberger, Lee Thomas and Bob Bollinger combined their talents to capture first honors. It was a tough meet for the Hounds to lose, particularly since they had to go on without the services of Jerry Rooney. Rooney is a big asset to the team, and not having him perform made a big difference. However, Bill Gross is deserving of a lot of praise for his great showing as he filled in for Rooney.

On Saturday, Feb. 7th, the Hounds went to Washington and beat C.U. 58-26. In the opening event which was the medley relay Lou McComas and Pete Bamberger copped first honors for Loyola. The second event saw the 220 free style being taken by Bob Bollinger and Larry Donegan. The third event, which was a sixty yard freestyle because of the irregular 20-yard pool at C.U., was taken by Bill Gross and Dick Wheeler placed third. In the individual medley relay it proved to be another McComas brother combine in so far as Lou took first place and Ed took second.

Donegan Again

The diving event saw first place taken by C.U., while Tom Volatile placed second. In the next event, the 100 yard free style, Captain Bollinger did a solo, taking 1st place honors. The 200 yard backstroke was taken by Ed McComas, but in the 200 yard breaststroke C.U. placed first and second, however Fred Buchness made a creditable showing by taking third. The 440 freestyle was wrapped up by Larry Donegan as he once again came through for the Greyhounds in fine style as he has been doing all season. The final event of the afternoon was a 400 yard freestyle relay, and it saw an unusual combination of Jack Burke, Dick Wheeler, Bob Gross and Lou McComas take first place.

Last Friday, Georgetown University's Hoyas came to Evergreen pool to engage the Hounds in a meet that was figured to be decided by a few points either way.

Coach Klarner's mermen surprised the visitors by taking 8 of the 10 events to humble the Hoyas 55-29. In the 300 yd. medley relay, the Loyola team of Ed and Lou McComas and Lee Thomas came in first. Bob Bollinger then copped the 220 yd. freestyle with Bamberger taking second.

Rooney Wins

Gerry Rooney won the 50 yd. freestyle in the good time of 24.7 seconds, as Bill Gross placed third. Lou McComas showed great form in taking the 150 yd. individual medley.

Feeny of Georgetown nosed out Tommy Volatile for diving honors, before Rooney came back to take the 100 yd. freestyle; Dick Wheeler placed third. Lou McComas won his specialty, the 200 yd. backstroke, to give the Hounds a comfortable lead.

Fred Buchness was nosed out in the stretch despite a great try. Bamberger scored again in the 440 with Donegan taking second. Loyola piled it up as the crack 400 yd. medley relay team scored an easy triumph.

On March sixth and seventh, the Hound swimmers will again be heavy favorites to take the Mason-Dixon crown. Last season the mermen took seven of the ten events and all these champions will be back to defend their titles. A year ago Loyola scored a 66-42 decision over their perennial rival American University.

B-Squaders Beaten Twice, Down West.Md.

by Jim Cole

On Saturday, January 31, Mt. St. Joe paid its annual visit to the Evergreen campus to play the B Squad, who had up till then, been the only team to beat the Gaels and not to have been beaten in return. St. Joe, in this game, used its greater manpower to advantage by running the tired Greyhounds. So, led by Jerry Komin and Gene Nieberlein, the Gaels took their revenge on the B-squaders, beating them by a score of 63 to 47.

Five Forty Minute Men

It was in the first minutes of the game that the Hounds were beaten, for it was then that Bill Phillips, star forward, twisted his knee and remained out, not only for the rest the game but probably for the rest of the season. Loyola was also playing without the services of Jim Allenbaugh, who was injured in a previous practice, and Waide Howley, who had returned home to Connecticut for the holidays. Since the B-squad carries only eight men and since three were unable to play, Coach Joe Nelson did not have to be a math major to figure out that the remaining five had to be forty minute men. So resorting to an unfamiliar zone defense in an effort to slow the opposition down, the Green and Grey held St. Joe partly in check for the first half. In the second half Joe Nelson, a former B squader himself, donned a Loyola uniform to see if he could bolster the team. It was all to no avail, however, for St. Joe, continuing their running game, just wore down the tired Hounds. Jerry Komin paced the Gaels with 18 points. High man for the losers was Bill Brown with 14.

Loyola B At Westminster

The Loyola College B-squad traveled to Western Maryland College to play the Terrors on Tuesday, February 3. Easily outclassing their opponents, the Green and Grey ran up a sizeable first half lead and then coasted to a 57 to 31 decision. Loyola had just too many guns for the Carroll Countians, with Bill Weglein and Bill Sturm grabbing rebounds and Joe Judge and Bob Benzing taking care of the floor play, the Terrors never made a contest of it. For the Greyhounds, Waide Howley and Bill Sturm were the leading scorers with 20 and 12 points respectively.

Calvert Hall Comes To Evergreen

On Wednesday, February 4, Calvert Hall brought its classy aggregation out to Loyola to play the B squad as a preliminary game to the Loyola-LaSalle contest. Featuring Bill Ackiss, fancy passer and clever dribbler, Jim Staiti, elongated center who is considered by many as the best pivot man in M.S.A. circles and a host of rooters who came to cheer their team to victory, the Cardinals were out to show their big brothers of the Christian Brothers that they were not the only ones who could play basketball. They proved it by soundly trouncing the B-squaders by a score of 64-47.

The Hounds were far off their usual good game for the Cathedral Streeters were out hustling them off the boards and playing an altogether better game. Loyola sorely missed Bill Phillips who always seemed to come through with the right shot at the right time. Jim Allenbaugh was in uniform, but he also was not up to his game. Little Waide Howley was phenomenal on the defense, holding the famed Billy Ackiss to thirteen points, far below his season's average.

NAP DOHERTY GETS OFF A BACKHAND SHOT despite the efforts of Vern Stokes. Stokes sank 30 points to pace St. Francis to 79-66 win over Loyola.

Cagers Bow to LaSalle, St. Francis; Top Terrors

by Jim Greenwell

Vernon "Jack-rabbit" Stokes spearheaded a St. Francis rally in the fourth period to give the Brooklyn basketballers a 79-66 triumph over Loyola College on January 31 at Evergreen.

With the aid of his rubbery piston-like legs and scooping, underhand hook-shots, the flashy Negro forward bucketed 30 points and turned a close game into victory by a comfortable margin for his cohorts.

The contest was very close until the fourth quarter. Loyola ended the first period trailing by 19-14, but after a brief rest, co-captain Ed Kowalewski found the range for three successive baskets to put the Hounds in the driver's seat. Before the second period ended, the coveted lead had changed ownership eight times, with the visitors assuming a 33-32 edge at half-time.

It stayed close during the third session which ended with the Brooklynites holding a 50-47 edge. At two points the hustling Hounds had battled within one marker, but Stokes went on his scoring binge and broke the game up.

The outstanding players of the game for the home fans were Ed Kowalewski with 18 points and Joel Hittleman whose 20 points topped Hound scorers. Terry Ahearn, entering the game in the last three minutes, showed brilliant form as he scored seven quick points.

Beat Western Maryland 79-51

Returning once more to Mason-Dixon Conference ranks, the Hounds ran a luckless Western Maryland squad into the ground to the tune of 79-51 in a skirmish on February 3 at Westminster.

Loyola took command shortly after the opening of the second period and never was threatened afterwards. The losers played the Reitzmen on even terms throughout the opening period, holding the lead until midway in the quarter when the Hounds took the lid off the basket and moved up to deadlock the score. The lead swayed back and forth several times until the quarter ended with Loyola exhibiting a 14 to 13 advantage.

The second period told the story as Hound sharpshooters sizzled the cords with 24 points, while on the defense, holding the Terrors to 5 in a like portion of time. The Loyola College quint was never headed after that, leading by as many as 38 points at one time in the game.

Gola Gets Goals

Just as Vern Stokes had ruined the Hounds' hope for an upset, so

Tom Gola, rugged LaSalle College nominee for all-America basketball honors, paced his team to an exciting 73 to 61 win over Loyola at Evergreen, February 4. Gola scored his highest total of the season, 29, as he led all scorers in the hard fought battle against one of the most powerful quints in the nation.

Curious cage fans filled Evergreen Memorial Gymnasium to view this player regarded by many as the best collegiate performer in the country. Gola lived up to his great reputation and showed the customers practically every trick of the game. The 200-pound soph star swept both backboards for a total of 29 rebounds, assisted on some spectacular scoring forays, and scored on long arching one-hand sets as well as driving layups.

Trailing 13 to 12 at the end of the initial period, the Greyhounds pulled into the lead early in the next session as senior Ed Kowalewski scored a foul shot to make the score 17 to 16.

Turning Point

The second quarter of the game proved the strategic turning point of the skirmish as the visitors outscored their hosts 23 to 9 and left the court at half-time leading the Reitzmen at 36 to 21. Omitting the second quarter lapse in defense, the fighting Greyhounds outscored LaSalle 52 to 50.

Nap Doherty, Loyola's counterpart of Gola, and Joel Hittleman performed very admirably as they both contributed 18 points apiece to the Hounds attack. These two stalwarts kept the LaSalle squad on their toes as Coach Ken Loeffler did not remove his stars until the fading minutes of the game. The whole Loyola squad, although unequal in height and depth to their opponents, may be proud of themselves for providing such an entertaining evening to the crowd, which included a large gathering of Father-and-Son Banquet guests.

That indefinable quality, "spirit," kept the Hounds pouring out their utmost at all times and undoubtedly gained them a number of new adherents, both young and old.

Bollinger, Cyphers Lead Swimming, Wrestling Team

Eight years ago Bob "the Rod" Bollinger started swimming at Loyola High. During these past eight years Bob has always been a fine leader and competitor among his teammates, therefore it is only fitting that he should finish his swimming career as captain of his team. Bob is tremendously proud of the team he now captains and earnestly claims that it has more spirit and more drive than any other varsity team at Loyola today.

Greatest Thrill

Unlike most athletes, Bob claims that no one event ever gave him a never-to-be-forgotten thrill although he admits that his victory, while only a freshman, in the 220 over North Carolina State leaves him a happy memory. Bob seems to get his biggest thrill out of just simply going for a swim.

Of all the men Bob has ever raced against he claims that his greatest competitor is one of his own teammates, Jerry Rooney. This statement is in keeping with the way Bob feels about all his teammates.

From Big Family

Bob is one of ten children, and up to this time he is the only swimmer in the family although he hopes some of his younger brothers will soon take up the sport. After college Bob expects to do a hitch in the Navy and then enter his father's roofing business. As far as Bob can foresee this will be his last year of competition. During the summer months he is kept busy working and has no time to get in condition, although he does some sailing during the warmer weather.

In last year's Mason-Dixon tournament Bob shared runnerup honors with team-mate Lou McComas by scoring ten points for the Hounds. Bob capped the 220 yd. freestyle and came back to score again in the 100 yd. freestyle as the mermen from Loyola swept seven of the ten events on the card. Again this year Bob and the Hounds will be back to defend their victories at the American University pool in Washington, D. C. on the sixth and seventh of March.

Jack Cyphers, who has not only been captaining this year's wrestling team, but has been acting in a coaching capacity as well, is recognized by local sport writers as one of the best matmen in these parts. Jack knew practically nothing about wrestling when he came to Loyola in 1949 as was evidenced by his losing nearly every match during his freshman year. He was also a member of the track team during his freshman year and pole-vaulted for the Hound trackmen.

Mason-Dixon Champ

This first year must have given him experience and confidence, for in his sophomore and junior years he took the Mason-Dixon Wrestling Championship in the 157 pound class. During these two years he lost only two matches. At the beginning of this season, Jack was designated as captain of the team, and in the absence of a coach he has also been helping in the instruction of the newer wrestlers as well as in the improvement of the experienced men.

Hails From Bethlehem

Cyphers was born and raised in Bethlehem, Pa., and did not move to Baltimore until the latter part of 1947. He attended Towson High School for a year and a half where he participated in track and cross-country. Now he has given up most other sports and concentrates entirely on wrestling.

A Real Outdoorsman

Jack spends much of his spare time hiking and camping in the Appalachian region. He says that there is nothing finer than outdoor activities for relaxation. "Wrestling", he says, "has given me many cherished friends and contacts, along with the pleasure of the sport itself. I have achieved confidence and self-satisfaction, therefore I feel that athletics in college develop a certain amount of leadership, discipline, fairness in competition and ambition. I hope to apply these qualities in future success." Jack is a mathematics major at Loyola and hopes to go into the mechanical engineering field after graduation.

Ping-pong and Bowling Off to Good Start

With the exclusion of two time champion Joel Hittleman from the annual ping-pong tournament, due to the ruling barring varsity athletes from intramural competition, the event this year should be a wide open battle for the school championship. The original 16 entrants have been whittled down to eight men who are now participating in the quarter finals.

Those who have advanced to the quarter final round include: Joe Morris, Pat Bowes, Larry Feeley, Mo Reeder, Bill Ruzicka, Tom McKew, Dan Whiteford, and Pickett Riehl.

Bowling In Swing

The intramural bowling tournament is going along in full swing with a two division setup. The Monday league with four teams is currently headed by the Test Tubers and Strikeasy with identical 3-0 records. Tom Cbristian holds the individual records in the Monday league with a one game high of 128 and a three game total of 359 pins. The team records are held by Strikeasy with a 536 total for 1 game and 1516 pins for a three game set.

In the Tuesday afternoon league with 8 teams, the Alley Cats and Deadwood are tied for first place with 5-1 records. Close behind, with 4-2 records, are the Mad Chemists and the Draft Dodgers. In the individual lead are John Cammarata with a high game of 149; Ed Fick with a three game 345 set; The Mad Chemists hold the team records with a 537 one game total and a 1528 total for three games.

Beau Roche, '52, is the general manager of the league and Sam Prestigiani is handling the job of secretary.

Swimming

A renewal of the old intramural swimming league has been planned. Beginning the first week in March, it will continue through the month. This league will be a team league. It will not be an individual tournament. Each team will be composed of members from the same year; i.e. freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior classes will each enter teams. Each class may enter as many teams as it desires to enter. Every team must consist of at least 6 men and not more than 14 men. No man will be allowed to swim more than 2 events, excluding the diving.

This is not a tournament but a double elimination dual meet contest. Two losses and the team is out of competition. All students are urged to file their entry blanks by Friday, February 27. No varsity swimming members are allowed to compete, but all other students and athletes are eligible. The events which will be held are:

- 25yd. freestyle
- 50yd. freestyle
- 100 yd. freestyle
- 50 yd. backstroke
- 50 yd. breaststroke
- 100 yd. freestyle relay
- 75 yd. medley relay
- (back, breast, and diving)

GYM JOTTINGS

by "Bloato"

Hello readers, I am back again to give you a run down on the happenings around the Gym. The first thing is that Joel Hittleman wishes a retraction he had a date last Sunday, congratulations, Joel!

"A word to the wise is sufficient." Stay away from Jack Cyphers, he will pin anybody. It seems that the M-D teams (Hopkins & BU) are afraid to wrestle our champ.

Gerry Rooney after a week in the sick bed returns to the pool to find Bill Gross hot on his trail for sprint honors. Keep it up, Bill.

Tom Wagner, Captain of the Lacrosse team, held a meeting and things look pretty good for the "Indians" except, who's in the goal? "Mooney?"

Frank Nasco, former lacrosse ace now serving with the US Army has announced his wedding date to Patricia Little for April 25, Good Luck to Frank and his Bride.

This article seems to be strictly lacrosse, but anyway, by the way of the grapevine I found out that "Doc" Carozza, popular lacrosse player and partyboy, is now serving in some capacity on the Lacrosse staff of the US Military Academy. Southern boy makes good.

Although faced with criticism and pessimistic ideas, Bruce Healy and Tom Volatile, Co-Presidents of the Block L, put on a most successful affair in the 1st annual Block "L" Father & Son Banquet Smoker. Congratulations should go to all students and a warm thank you to the alumni who made it successful.

Loyola's Bevo Francis seems to be spending quite a lot of time around a neighboring school, his reason rhymes with "Oldsmobile."

Jack McGrain, editor of THE GREYHOUND and author of the recent editorial "Are Collegians Cannibals" was seen at the basketball game. What is the matter, no symphony that night? ? ?

February 23 Loyola travels to Mt. St. Mary's and I hope we represent "Evergreen" as well as the "Mounties" represented their school. Let's all try to be there.

The basketball team and myself wish to offer their condolence to the family of Richard Kemp '46 on the occasion of his death. His warm friendship and helping hand given to the team will always be remembered.

Good Luck to all the teams in the coming tournaments, let's have a clean sweep for the "Hounds".

Who was the college basketball player who chaperoned at local high school junior prom ? ? ? huh, Joel?

Basketball...

man's basket at three minutes of the third period shoved the Hounds to the fore, 38 to 36. Trailing by 11 points early in the ultimate session, the die-hard Blue Jays refused to quit and pulled up to 72 to 70 with some 20 seconds remaining.

Hopkins Comes Back

At this appropriate moment, Joel Hittleman, playing the hero's role, saved the Greyhounds from the likelihood of a tie game when he forced a jump ball by bottling up opponent Dink Wilson. On the ensuing jump Hittleman tapped the coveted sphere far down court where alert Nap Doherty sank the added insurance as the final buzzer sounded. For an entertaining evening, don't fail to see the return engagement of these squads at Evergreen on February 25.

Morgan Stopped

The Greyhounds, guests of the Morgan State Bears, downed their hosts in a hard-fought encounter at Edward Hurt Gymnasium on February 12. Pulling away in the second stanza the Reitzmen, repelling several spirited Morgan rallies, stayed in front the rest of the game to come away on top, 64 to 57.

Morgan appropriated the lead after only 15 seconds and led until midway of the second period when talented Joel Hittleman placed an errant rebound on the right path to put Hounds ahead 25 to 23. The Morganmen, playing before a packed house, initiated hopeful rallies near the end of the second, third and fourth periods, but each time fell short of the "promised land."

Pistorio Shines

Although consistent scorers Nap Doherty and Joel Hittleman, with 14 and 13 points respectively, were Loyola's top point-getters, it was the scoring antics of scrappy Tony Pistorio that thrilled faithful Hound supporters. Shaking loose from his defensive man on various occasions with powerful bursts of speed, Tony provided the "something extra" to spark the Hounds to victory. And so the Morgan Bears go into hibernation until next year when many court enthusiasts hope to witness another Hound-Bear affair.

Doherty Gets 27

Fast breaking their opposition the length of the game, the Loyola College Greyhounds capped their eighth victory in nine Mason-Dixon Conference clashes as they victimized Washington College 77 to 66 at Chestertown, February 14.

The contest was relatively close throughout, but once the Shoremen lost the lead after seven minutes of the first quarter; they never again retained it. As the buzzer sounded for the end of the first half, the scoreboard declared the Hounds on top at 41 to 33.

Nap Doherty, scoring 27 markers, experienced one of his better nights of basketmaking as he hit on a variety of hooks, one-handers, sets and driving lay-ups. He was ably assisted by energetic Ed Kowalewski who propelled 19 scoring units through the meshes.

For those who witnessed both the Hopkins and Morgan contests an interesting contrast may be pointed out. Against Johns Hopkins the Greyhounds rallied mainly on the deadly scoring eye of Joel Hittleman; Doherty and others seemed to be a bit erratic that evening. The scoring in the Morgan State clash, however, was well proportioned as the Hounds performed like a well-oiled machine. Coach Reitz was more elated at the passing and teamwork of his charges during the Morgan affair.

ED KELLY SHOWED GREAT PROMISE in extending champion Al Dorry of Baltimore U. Dorry gained a hard earned 9-6 decision over Kelly.

Wrestlers Beat Towson, Terrors; Stung by Bees

by Bo Menton

Defeated by the defending champions Baltimore University's Bees 19-13, the Hound matmen bounced back for their first victory of the season by thumping the Terrors of Western Maryland 29-3.

By turning back the Hounds, Baltimore remained unbeaten in dual competition. As was expected, the visitors built up an early lead in the low weight classes. Dick Shofer pinned Loyola's Ed Idzi in 2:41 with a body press. Co-Captain Toston, twice a Mason-Dixon champion, defeated Mike Ford by a 11-2 decision in the 130 lb. class. In the 137 lb. class Brunner of Baltimore defeated Paul Burke of the Hounds by pulling a reversal to pin his man.

In one of the best matches of the day, Freshman Ed Kelly gave highly favored champion Al Dorry quite a battle before bowing by a 9-6 decision. Kelly shows great promise for the coming Mason-Dixon championship tournament. After these four matches Baltimore U. had a comfortable 16-0 lead.

B.U. Shies Away From Cyphers

Dave Jacobsen gave Loyola their first score as he decisioned Dave Palmer in the 157 lb. class. As the match ended Jacobsen was near pinning his man. At 167 the most anticipated match of the day failed to materialize as Baltimore U. forfeited to Jack Cyphers. Wayne Millner and Cyphers had been expected to battle it out. At this point the Hounds trailed 16-8.

Millner, however, stepped up a class and decision Jack Pfeifer 11-4 to clinch the match for the Bees. Jack Fallon, heavyweight, needed only 2:40 to pin Carroll Watlmeyer in the final match.

First Win, Four Falls

Against the Terrors the Green and Grey grapplers turned the tables as Idzi and Ford both pinned their man to give Loyola a 10-0 lead. Burke gained a 5-0 decision at 137 before Kelly brought the score to 18-0 by pinning Stewart at 8:41. Bemestefer of the visitors gave Western Maryland its only score as he used his time advantage to defeat Jacobsen of Loyola 4-2.

Captain Cyphers gained a one sided 10-1 decision at 167 to give Loyola its first victory of the year. At 177 Pfeifer took only 2:41 to score five more points and Jack Fallon decisioned Duhl to end the meet.

On Friday the thirteenth, the Teachers from Towson almost pulled an upset over the Loyola matmen before bowing by a 17-13 score in a Mason-Dixon match. Hughes, a mid-term freshman from Patterson, pinned Idzi and Spurrier decisioned Ford to give Towson an 8-0 lead. In a match that was a real surprise, Burke of Loyola was pinned by Weber. Kelly decisioned his man to start things off and Jacobsen, despite an injury, defeated Tra-band 6-0. Cyphers pinned his opponent in 5 minutes and 30 seconds. Pfeifer nosed out Dashiell to give Loyola the lead 14-13 before Jack Fallon sewed it up with his victory in the heavy class.

Last Wednesday night saw the Cardinals of Catholic University bow to the grapplers of Loyola by an 18-14 score in Washington, D. C. As usual victories in the heavier weight classes gave Loyola the win. Idzi, Ford and Burke were victims again. All three lost by decision. Kelly scored a decisive triumph to bring the tally to 3-9. Jacobsen suffered a defeat at 157, being pinned in 3 minutes. Cyphers then made short work of his opponent, pinning him quickly. Pfeifer followed suit. In the final match Ned Callahan, making his debut for the Greyhounds this year, pinned his foe, a 220 lb. stalwart in the third period.

The Mason-Dixon Tournament is set for the 27 and 28 of this month.

Jay Bees Off to Fast Start in Court Loop

Defending champions the Jay-Bees appear off to a fast start in quest of another Intramural Hoop crown. Victors in their first two clashes, the second by a convincing 78-26 score, this senior outfit from Andy's might be able to take it again. Though it was quite evident that they were out of shape; McKew, Feeley, Mohler and Matthews hit the two digit mark.

The freshmen Streaks appear to be the team to give the older men the most trouble. Speedsters Dentx, Dickson, Snyder and Young are the ones the Bees have to stop.

Another senior pleasure club, the Elbowbenders, figure to throw their weight around. Since chief Bender Fallon and Mike Ford entered the mat wars, the Benders are hard pressed for replacements.

Hounds Down American U., Morgan State

Avenging an earlier 69 to 64 defeat, the Greyhounds clipped the feathers of the American University Eagles, 69-53, at Evergreen, February 7. The Hounds shook off a desperate fourth period rally by the Washingtonians who had driven to within six points, at 55 to 49, with four minutes left in the game. At this point the home team applied freezing tactics, forcing the Eagles to foul in order to gain possession of the sphere. The maneuver proved very successful as Loyola opened up their lead from six to sixteen points, their final margin of victory.

The Greyhounds opened fast, and pulling away from a 2-2 tie, spurted into a 20 to 6 lead by the end of the first quarter. With Joel Hittleman hitting from all angles and Tony Pistorio stealing the ball with extraordinary speed and deception, the Loyola five appeared to be making a run-away of the game.

Eagles Drift Nearer

But the Hounds could not maintain such a hectic pace and play slowed down considerably in the second and third quarters as the Eagles slowly edged back into contention. On four different occasions Loyola maintained 15 point leads. Although the eventual losers managed to narrow the gap at various times, their zone defense was no match for the fast-breaking, driving tactics of Coach Reitz's boys. The speed of the Hounds' offense was so great that, at times, the famed American zone defense did not have an opportunity to set itself up.

In this do-or-die encounter, the shot-making ability of stalwarts Nap Doherty and Joel Hittleman, who scored 16 and 19 points respectively, was applied at just the correct moments to keep the pressure on their worthy opponents. The win gave Loyola a 17 to 16 edge in brushes with American University.

Hittleman Sensational

Reminding one of pro-basketballer Joe Fulks in the prime of his court glory, Joel Hittleman and his jump shot rang up a single game high total of 32 points in leading the Loyola College Greyhounds to an exciting 74-70 triumph over an upset-seeking, Johns Hopkins squad at Homewood on February 10.

Hittleman hit on 14 of his 26 floor shots for a 53.8% completion of his attempts. He also converted 4 of 5 free throws as the Greyhounds bolstered their runner-up spot in the Mason-Dixon Conference scramble; our log showing seven won, one lost at this point.

Loyola assumed the lead for the length of the contest after Hittle-

LOYOLA OF THE EAST

Running With The Hounds

by Mike Ford, Sports Editor

Since last Monday the Loyola College swimming pool has been under a set of regulations. These have been long overdue. Included among these rules are: No one under 15 years of age is allowed to swim. The swimming pool will be open from 2:00

P. M. to 5:00 P. M. Monday through Friday. The two exceptions to the immediately preceding rule are: The pool will be open when the swimming team has a meet. The pool will not be open unless a life guard is on duty.

For the most part these life guards will be recruited from the swimming team and scholarship students. The non-scholarship guards will be paid $.60 an hour and all the guards will have their senior lifesaving. Swimming captain Bob Bollinger will be captain of the patrol. Thus far, he will be ably assisted by Ned Callahan, Bruce Healy, and Jerry Rooney. John I. Leahy has been appointed instructor in the kiddies' pool.

Successful Banquet

On February 4, the Block "L" Club held a highly successful father-son smoker. This affair was figured by many to be incapable of success. It received little encouragement and was forced to overcome much inertia. But overcoming all the difficulties encountered, Tom Volatile and Bruce Healy and the Athletic Association put on a smoker both socially and financially successful. For the benefit of those who didn't attend, it might be noted here that the food was very good also. Tom and Bruce wish to extend thanks, in behalf of the Block "L" Club, to all those who helped in any way to make the affair what it was. And I, writing now in behalf of THE GREYHOUND sports staff, want to say, nice going to Tom, Bruce, and the Block "L" Club officers.

Intramurals

Since the intramural swimming tournament is being held in the month of March in the lull between winter and spring sports, all varsity athletes, other than swimmers, may participate. Those who have not been able to partake of the luxury of intramural competition, because of playing varsity sports, now have their chance in the pressureless class play. Take advantage of this opportunity and use this fine facility that the school provides. If the school didn't have a swimming pool, "What this school needs is a swimming pool," would ring in your ear all the time.

Wrestling Tournament

For all those interested in watching good wrestling matches, I might remind you of the Mason-Dixon wrestling tournament at Johns Hopkins University next Friday and Saturday, February 27 and 28. Those two days and nights promise to give "wrassling" fans many thrills and tense moments. While we can see no one in the field who will give Loyola captain Jack Cyphers any competition, it is conceivable that Wayne Millner might. In the other weight classes the matches, from all indications will be very close and certainly highly anticipated. Some examples of what I am talking about are: Shofer and Spurrier, a rematch between Hoke and Toston, Ruland against either of them, Kelly versus Brunner, Dorry and Swain again, Callahan or Fallon versus Goldin or Carlson. This preview ought to be enough to show you that the tournament is going to be well worth attending. See you there!
